Third bogus bill passed in area

By ELLIS CUEVAS

A Waveland business received a bogus $20 bill on Monday, according to Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille, city police investigator.

Tartavouille reported, "This is the third counterfeit bill to be passed in the Waveland and Bay St. Louis area this month."

The bogus bill was caught by a teller of Hancock Bank's U.S. 90 Branch in Bay St. Louis on Monday, with a deposit being made by Day's Frontier of Waveland, Jeanette Purchner, loan officer said.

Mrs. George Day on Tuesday stated the bogus $20 was apparently passed at her family's feed store on Monday morning by an unidentified person.

Tartavouille urges all merchants to be alert to the possibility of receiving one of the bogus bills and he understands two have also been passed in the Slidell area this month.

A bogus $20 was passed at the Waveland Utility Department last week and detected when a deposit was checked by a Merchants Bank teller.

William Breland, bank manager for Merchants at Waveland and Waveland West, reports the bogus bills are usually in large denominations.

The first bill to be passed in Hancock County was at a US-90 service station two weeks ago.

Tartavouille indicated the three bills passed in Hancock County carried the serial number of F07155152B 1981 series.

Ms. Purchner reported the Secret Service collects the bogus bills.

She further stated that when a counterfeit bill is discovered the amount is deducted from the customer's deposit.

Tartavouille reported the Secret Service is conducting the investigation. Any information on bogus bills can be reported to the Waveland Police Department at 467-3669.

In other police matters, Delbert Seay, Hancock County investigator, reports the arrest of one person on Tuesday in connection with some blank checks stolen from a resident in December and being filled out with forged signature and being cashed.

Seay said, "Eugene Lawrence Sr., 48, of Lucedale, Miss. was apprehended by George County sheriff's officers on Tuesday and is now lodged in the Hancock County jail in lieu of a $10,000 bond. Lawrence is alleged to be involved with the cashing of several of the forged checks."

"We have been investigating the matter since December and other subjects are being sought in the matter," Seay added.

Wine, mayor greet cross-county bicyclist

By NANCY PATTON EHRBRIGHT

"It all started as a joke," Barbara Boston said of the rather elaborate greeting she arranged for her brother, Michael Carroll, when he arrived in Hancock County earlier this week for a visit.

Carroll, a TWA steward from St. Louis, Mo., pedaled his cross-country bicycle across the Bay bridge from Harrison County about 10 a.m. Monday morning and found a delegation of Boston's neighbors and Mayor Larry Bennett waiting for him on the Bay St. Louis side of US-90.

The surprised young redhead, who celebrated his 18th birthday the day after his arrival, was welcomed, greeted the young reporters and journalists he was meeting for the first time—and rode to the other Boston children's birthday party, the two sons of the Boston Mayor.

Two men hospitalized after Hwy. 603 wreck

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Two men are hospitalized as the result of a one-vehicle accident on Hwy. 603 about one mile north of the Hwy. 43 intersection in Kiln.

Donald Hendricks and John Gibson were hospitalized as a result of their vehicle leaving the highway and striking an embankment.

Mary Perkins, public relations director of Hancock General Hospital here, said Wednesday that Gibson, 33, of Pearl, Miss., is hospitalized with fractures to both legs and face lacerations.

Gibson is in serious but stable condition and may be transferred to Slidell Memorial Hospital, she reported.

Hendricks, 26, of Route 2, Box 204, Perkinson, has a possible fractured back, is in fair condition and may also be transferred to another hospital, Perkins said.

Deputy Nathan Hoda of the Hancock County Sheriff's Department said Wednesday that he and his son, Barry Hoda, were traveling south on Hwy. 603 Monday night in separate vehicles when he spotted a damaged station wagon just off the highway at about 8 p.m.

The deputy said the station wagon apparently ran off the highway, struck a culvert and embankment of a driveway entrance and rolled over on the outside of a curve (the east side of the highway) north of Cuevas Junction.

Hoda, who was off-duty at the time, said he found the two men injured and pinned inside the vehicle so he had his son telephone the Diamondhead Fire Department and request the bring the Jaws of Life to extricate the two.

He speculated that Gibson was the driver of the station wagon.

The deputy reported Mobile Medic arrived at the scene and then Diamondhead Fire Department volunteers arrived with the Jaws to free the two accident victims from the wreckage.

Also at the scene were on-duty Deputies Willie Lee and Don Coss.

Sam Pernicaro, Wrecker Service removed the demolished vehicle, Hoda said.

State Troopers Curtis Newman and Tony Greer investigated the accident.

After bicycling around Florida he headed toward Mississippi for the Waveland Civic Association's St. Patrick's Day parade.

Weather permitting, he plans to leave here about March 19 to visit a brother in Atlanta, then return to St. Louis.

"I have to be back by the second weekend in May for a wedding," he said.

"I'm a biker," he added, grinning. "This is the greatest state in all the states." The jubilant Carroll finished.

Democrats to elect Hancock County delegates Saturday

By NANCY PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Hancock County Democrats will hold precinct caucuses Saturday to elect delegates to the county convention.

Hancock County Democratic Executive Committee Chairman Joseph E. Benvenuti and Secretary Leo W. Seal, both of Bay St. Louis, report that caucuses will begin at 10 a.m. at regular polling places in each precinct.

According to Benvenuti, who says he has served as executive committee chairman for some 12 years, caucus rules prohibit anyone arriving after 10:30 a.m. from participating.

The precinct caucuses are the initial phase of the 1984 Democratic Presidential nomination process.

Delegates chosen at the precinct caucuses will attend the county convention March 31 at Hancock County Courthouse.

Delegates from the county convention will be elected to both the Congressional District Convention in Hattiesburg April 14 and the state convention May 4 and 5 in Jackson.

At the March 31 county convention, precinct delegates will also elect members to serve on the county executive committee for the next four years.

At the Congressional District convention 75 percent of the State Executive Committee for 1984-88 will be elected, with the remaining 25 percent of the state committee elected at the state convention.

The Mississippi delegation to the 1984 Democratic national convention will be composed of the following delegates and alternates:

Twenty-five delegates and eight alternates chosen at the Congressional District convention;

Ten party and elected official delegates and two party and elected official alternates chosen at the state convention, including seven unpledged delegates and two alternates and three pledged delegates;

Eight at-large delegates and four at-large alternates chosen at the state convention.

Hancock again exonerated in deep hole drownings

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Hancock County has again been exonerated of negligence in several of the deep hole drownings by a federal appeals court.

The U.S. Justice Department representing the Army Corps of Engineers filed a "cross appeal" in the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans against Hancock after the survivors of two of the deep hole victims appealed the out-of-court damage settlements allowed by the Federal District Court in Biloxi.

The appeals court ruling also upholds the federal government liability payments alone in this case to $760,000 which is substantially less than the almost $8 million sought by the survivors of eight deep hole victims.

Hancock was originally sued by the federal government as a "third party defendant" in the first court battle, but Judge Daniel Thomas of Mobile disagreed with the U.S. government's claim that a hold-harmless agreement signed by the county made it liable for the deaths.

Some 25 people have died in the underwater hole offshores from Gulfside Methodist Assembly Center in Waveland which was created in a 1966 Corps dredging project forming a protective sand berm along a portion of the Hancock coast.

The deadly cavity was filled last summer following the Biloxi court ruling in almost $1 million Corps dredging project.

All three Circuit Court of Appeals judges agreed with Thomas' decision that the county was not liable basically because Hancock officials had no supervisory control over the Corps dredging work offshore.

The judges also noted that county officials had requested and were denied permits at least twice from the Corps for projects to prevent further drownings in the resulting hole.

But the appeals court cited an error in the district court award for funeral expenses for the late Francisco Verrett

Supervisors take no action to nullify Johnson lease

By NANCY PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Yesterday the Hancock County Board of Supervisors took under advisement a recommendation from the Port and Harbor Commission to nullify a lease with Mississippi Pumping Service, Inc.

In August 1983 the county, through the Port and Harbor Commission and the supervisors, executed a lease/option agreement with Mississippi Pumping Service, Inc. for a 10-acre site at Port Bienville Industrial Park for construction of a waste management system to incinerate oil-drilling waste materials, Commission Director James C. DeBlanc reminded the supervisors.

The agreement called for lessee to begin construction within six months and complete construction within 24, DeBlanc said.

Because Mississippi Pumping has failed to meet the terms of the agreement, the Port and Harbor Commission recommended that the lease agreement be declared null and void; and that a pre-paid amount of $72,000 be returned to the company.

Supervisor James Travirca said he felt any action would be premature at this point.

"We'd be jumping the gun," he said, noting pending litigation between Mississippi Pumping Services and Borg-Warner Chemicals Inc., which occupies an adjacent site.

The two companies have been at odds for some months, each expressing concern that operations of the other could cause pollution problems.

Curtis Johnson, president of Mississippi Pumping Service, filed a $20 million lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Biloxi last month, charging that Borg-Warner interfered with Johnson's lease with the commission.

The lawsuit also alleges that Borg-Warner interfered with a contract with Bay St. Louis waters said 'grossly polluted'

Federal and state officials have called for a ban on oyster harvesting in the mouth of Bay St. Louis, classifying those waters as "grossly polluted."

Anthony Tacon, chemical specialist for the state Department of Health said the oyster reef that would be permanently closed is located between the bridge at US-90 and the Seaboard System Railroad in the bay just west of Pass Christian.

He said counts of fecal coliform bacteria in the area typically reach 24,000 per 100 milliliters of water following heavy rains.

The maximum bacteria count allowed for water in oyster harvesting areas is 10 per 100 milliliters.

Tacon indicated much of the problem is increasing development in the Millington area, from which a canal connects the Mississippi River to the bay.

He said the area has been developed substantially since Hurricane Camille wiped out most oyster reefs in the area in 1972.

The area lies just west of the Pass Christian corporate limits and therefore is not served by city sewers.

The spreading pollution from the bay could result in a reduction of the "safety zone" along the shore and adjoining the Pass Christian fishing reef, Tacon said. That zone now extends 700 feet from the shore.

A reassessment program is carried out by the Health Department every two years to update the comprehensive sanitary survey conducted every 10 years.

Tacon said the most recent survey will be completed in a report to be drafted later this year and forwarded to the Bureau of Marine Resources and the state health director, who will make the changes.

The reassessment follows a lengthy study conducted by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration.

and upped that amount from $1,700 to $3,200.

John Hunter, who represented the survivors of Verrett and another deep hole victim, Chavela Price, said Wednesday that the appeals court also maintained a $146,000 award to Price's beneficiaries and $164,000 to Verrett's heirs.

Those were the only two cases appealed. The heirs of six others involved in the district court action settled for $75,000 each and the beneficiaries of the 25th deep hole victim are seeking $250,000 in the death of Cheryl Crawford which occurred in 1981.

The original eight plaintiffs sued the government for about $1 million each. Hunter said the federal government or his clients could appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, but based on the Monday ruling he feels that is highly unlikely to occur.

New precautions planned after Sunday jail escape

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Changes in visiting hour procedures at the Hancock County Jail may be implemented as a result of a jail escape earlier this week.

Hancock County authorities have not yet located two men who escaped Sunday, Sheriff Ronnie Peterson reported yesterday afternoon.

The two escapees, Robert Mitchell, 18, and Michael Stinger, 22, both of Bay St. Louis, escaped between 1 and 2 p.m. Sunday during visiting hours.

Peterson reported earlier this week that the escape occurred after the men were taken out of the jail because of overcrowding during the visiting period.

Both Mitchell and Stinger were incarcerated in connection with burglary convictions, Peterson said.

Mitchell, who received a seven-year suspended sentence following his conviction, was recently ordered to serve his full sentence at the state penitentiary after violating his probation.

Stinger was apprehended the day before he escaped for probation violation.

Peterson said yesterday that from now on extra precautionary measures will be taken during visiting hours.

"We don't have an area for visitation," he said. "That's a real problem."

"What we plan to do is run visitation in a more confined area from now on," he said.

And when too many people show up, visiting hours will be broken up into two periods, he said.

Democrats

must file by mail by 5 p.m. CST March 17. Benvenuti said filing forms will be available at the precinct caucuses.

According to Mississippi Democratic Party officials, a special effort is being made to encourage Blacks, Hispanics, Native Americans, Asian/Pacific Americans, women, ethnics workers, youth, persons over 65, persons of low and moderate income, persons with a high school education or less, physically handicapped and other groups significantly under-represented in Democratic Party affairs to participate and be represented in an open delegate selection process for the national convention.

The procedures for the precinct caucuses are:

—Participants will be asked to sign a roster declaring they are registered voters of the precinct and members of the Mississippi Democratic Party.

—Voters will declare their preference for a candidate or declare themselves uncommitted to a specific candidate.

—By secret ballot voters will elect a permanent chairperson and secretary of the caucus, who will then determine the percentage of preference for each candidate.

—Any group representing a specific candidate who gets less than ten percent of the support at that precinct will have the option of joining another group or declaring themselves uncommitted, and the preference percentages will then be recalculated.

—Each candidate's preference group will caucus among themselves to elect the individuals to represent them at the county convention. The delegates selected must fairly reflect the local racial breakdown and be equally divided between men and women.

The number of delegates allowed is determined by percent of preference and the precinct size.

In Hancock County, Election Commissioner Charles Gottschalk reports, South Bay precinct will have five votes at the county convention.

Waveland East and North Bay West will each have three.

Lakshore, Pearlington, Diamondhead, City Hall and Courthouse precincts will each have two votes.

The remaining precincts, Gottschalk said, will each have one vote at the county convention.

The number of delegates elected to share each precinct vote is four, and no precinct shall have fewer than one vote represented by four delegates at the county convention.

Royal Court reigns over 'Wonders of Science Fiction'

St. Paul's Carnival Association recently staged its 54th annual Mardi Gras Ball in Pass Christian.

The theme of this year's ball was the "Wonders of Science Fiction."

The decorations carried out the motif. The ball room was decorated to represent a space ship's visit to other planets.

The stage, the decoration to point, was ablaze with colorful, giant sized flora and fauna, representing an exotic garden on another planet.

The plants were tended by tiny green men.

Growing in this other world garden were huge trees bearing white fruit and silver leaves. Shooting stars lit the overhead.

The ball was opened by the Ball Captain, whose identity remains secret.

The captain escorted the retiring King Christian LIII, Charles Bates, and his Queen Christiana, Mrs. Linda Boudreau Perkins, to the stage where they awaited the entrance of the 1984 King, Carl Flettich, King Christian LIV.

King Christian LIV greeted his loyal subjects resplendent in a costume of white satin heavily encrusted with rhinestones and precious gems. His crown and scepter bore fleur-de-lis decorations of rhinestones.

The king's mantle of royal purple velvet was edged in silver braid and decorated with multi-colored semi-precious stones.

The mantle bore the association's logo of sea-horses flanking the St. Paul's Sisters of Mercy shield.

Mr. Flettich proceeded to the throne, and received the members of his court:

Mrs. Melanie Dreher escorted by Edward Warner; Mrs. Cheryl Theobald escorted by Stephen Theobald; Mrs. Merle Blackwell escorted by Jack Blackwell; Mrs. Elaine Duprey escorted by Kenny Duprey; Mrs. Stacey Stewart escorted by Gene Stewart; Mrs. Doris LaRosa escorted by David LaRosa; and Mrs. Charlene Marvil escorted by Rich Marvil.

Also, Mrs. Diane Niolet escorted by Kevin Gallagher; Mrs. Chris Theobald escorted by Don Theobald; Mrs. Sharon Spearance escorted by Bill Spearance; Mrs. Veronica Ladner escorted by Lessie Ladner; Mrs. Kathy Rogers escorted by Jake Erwin; and Mrs. Laurie Dickenson escorted by William Dickenson.

Mrs. Doris Flettich, wife of King Christian was escorted by Randy Perkins.

Pages to his Royal Majesty were Masters Davis and Daniel Webb, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Webb; Joey Niolet, son of Mr. and Mrs. Greg Niolet and Derek Inkol, son of Grand Duke and Mrs. D.J. Inkol.

Following the entrance of the Court, the Ball Captain escorted the 1984 Grand Duke, Dr. Doug Inkol and his Grand Duchess, Mrs. Dorothy Begue Warner to their places on the stage.

Entering to the strains of "If Ever I Cease To Love" was her royal majesty, Queen Christiana of 1984, Mrs. Judy Pavolini Dickenson, escorted by her husband, Dickie Dickenson.

The queen wore a gown, created for her by Mrs. Margaret Necessaire, of white French eyelet lace featuring a flower design. The bodice was fashioned with rhinestones covered spaghetti straps and heavily embroidered with aurora borealis crystals and drop crystals.

The fullskirt featured a peplum waistline and a scalloped hem line. The skirt was re-embroidered with beading and crystals, her elbow length gloves matched the dress.

Mrs. Dickenson wore the queen's 15 foot mantle matching that of King Christian. Little maidens to the queen were Julie Dreher, daughter of Mr.

and Mrs. Bill Dreher; Annie Flettich, daughter of King Christian Carl Flettich and Mrs. Flettich; Barbie Dickenson, daughter of the Queen and Mr. Dickenson, and Laurie Spearance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Spearance.

A family/Neighborhood—first place, Brown-Ballatin Family for Return of the Jedi; second place, Matkin-Taylor Family for Close Encounters of the Nerd Kind; third place, Stewart-Peralta Family for Lost in Space.

Business Category—first place, The 4 R's Restaurant for Space Invaders; second place, Krewe of Du(Dupont) for Lost in Outer Space.

The Grand Duke and Duchess received favors from the association's president, John Hayden Jr.

Master of Ceremonies for the evening was Billy McDonald. Decorations for the ball were done by members of St. Paul's PTO under the direction of Mrs. Wanda Tracy.

Mrs. Jean Stanbro was chairman of the Court Committee; program chairmen were Diane Peranich and Edna Szymanski.

Blade guard for saw table offered free

Central Quality Industries, Polo, Ill., in cooperation with the U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, reports a program to provide free blade guards to owners of Central Quality Industries and Pow-R-Tool saw tables.

These tables did not previously have a blade guard to help prevent fingers and hand injuries.

Saw tables sold after June 20, 1983, contained a blade guard.

The firm has received six injury complaints, including four reports of finger amputation and two reports of finger lacerations associated with the use and operation of the saw tables without the blade guards.

The saw tables are designed to hold a portable circular saw, sabre saw, and routers so that it can be used as a table saw.

Approximately 166,304 saw tables have been distributed by the firm since the late 1950s under the brand name of 'Central Quality Industries' and 'Pow-R-Tool Table,' which appears on the table top.

The product has been sold nationwide and is available with a metal or plastic top, with or without legs, and currently retails between $49 and $90.

All purchasers of these saw tables should telephone Central Quality Industries at 812-946-2311, collect, to obtain a new blade guard free of cost to them.

Purchasers of saw tables since June 20, 1983, should also obtain a new blade guard as the old guard has been modified.

Anyone wishing additional information may contact CPSC's toll-free Hotline at 800-638-CPSC. A teletypewriter number for the hearing impaired is 800-638-8270.

War On Ugliness workshop

A county and community beautification workshop—Mississippi's War on Ugliness—is to be held Monday in the Bay St. Louis Library at 9:30 a.m., according to Darlene Underwood, Hancock Extension home economist, and Ellis Cuevas, Hancock Chamber of Commerce beautification committee chairman.

Dr. Bob Chapin, coordinator of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Land Use Center in Starkville, said the workshop is to present highlights and information about improving community appearance.

The workshop also will feature the 1984 Louisiana World Exposition showing things to see and do in the coastal counties and how communities can get ready for the one and one-half million tourists who will visit Mississippi.

Dr. Chapin will discuss 15 operations and techniques for county and community beautification programs.

The workshop will show how projects may be organized, objectives formed, priorities established, action programs executed, results evaluated and success maintained.

The workshop is expected to attract chamber of commerce leaders, garden club members, homemaker clubs, 4-H leaders, public officials and interested citizens.

Other speakers will include Ms. Caye Cook, planner for the Land Use Center. Registration starts at 9 a.m. in the library's Crawford Room.

Participants are asked to enter through the Ulman Street entrance. The workshop will end at noon. There is no registration fee.

Mrs. Underwood is in charge of the arrangements.

Catahoula bridge work scheduled to begin today

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
Repair work on the Catahoula bridge, the scene of several traffic accidents on Caesar-Necaise Road, is scheduled to start today.

Engineer Larry Seal told the Hancock County Board of Supervisors yesterday the contractor has had trouble getting barricades and expects to begin work today.

The project should take about two weeks to complete, Seal estimates.

The bridge is a problem, he noted. "You come down off a hill around a curve and suddenly you're on the bridge."

Because the cost of providing a bypass for a relatively short time frame is prohibitive, Seal said the road would be closed during construction.

"I know it will be an inconvenience, but we're going to try not only to increase the water-carrying capacity of the bridge but also to make it safer."

According to Seal the project will include adding two spans, building a spur dike, rerouting the channel, increasing elevation and expanding the shoulders.

"That's about all we can do to make the road safer unless we go to total realignment," he said.

USM documenting marine environment

The department of radio, television, and film at the University of Southern Mississippi has been named to assist in filming a documentary for the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources.

The documentary, funded by a federal grant, will be used as an educational tool to teach junior high, high school, college students, and community groups about the many resources which make up the state's marine environment.

"We began working on the film in March of last year," said Kevin McDuff, USM's coordinator of the 30-minute documentary.

The film includes a series of interviews with coast fishermen, biologists, and businessmen who are directly associated with the state's marine environment and the problems which threaten its resources.

One of the biggest threats, according to McDuff, is the suffocation of marshlands and oyster reefs by the dumping of mud dredged up to clear channels.

The state's marsh area is the spawning ground for crab and shrimp, which later migrate toward the Mississippi Sound as they mature. Without the spawning ground, the state's seafood industry would be in jeopardy.

"Over the past 20 or 30 years," said McDuff, "many of the oyster reefs have been destroyed, and it's a lot harder now for fishermen to make a living." Efforts are now being made to build up the reefs so they will once again be a rich resource for the state.

Additionally, many out-of-state fishermen are occupying Mississippi waters, putting a big drain on the state's fish supply; and pollution is yet another threat to marine resources.

Terese Collins, special projects coordinator of the marine resources bureau, said the variety of people interviewed in the film allows for a statement of the problems, as well as solutions toward enriching and protecting the resources.

The film, scheduled for completion in May, 1984, will be available to the public in June, the following month.

The division will include 1. Ladies; 2. Open - Anyone may play; 3. Closed - Anyone may play provided he did not play college basketball since the 1980-81 season; 4. 32 and up - Players must be 32 or older; and 5. Local - Open to residents of Pearl River County, any age players in this division may play in one more division.

The entrance fee will be $5 a team. A team will be allowed 12 players, a coach, and a manager.

A roster must be completed before the first game. In the event a player's name appears on two rosters, the player has the privilege to choose one team.

The main purpose of this tournament is to promote basketball in this area. Please ask each player to display gentleman-like conduct and good sportsmanship while participating in this tournament.

Please send a roster of players, the name and address of your coach and team, the telephone number of the person in charge, and the entrance fee to G. G. Breeland at Pearl River Central High School by March 16.

Enter by calling Charles Grantham at 798-1560 or Pat Lumpkin at 798-4326.

Trophies will be awarded to the participants of the winning teams and all-tournament team will be selected in each division.

String of Pearls tryouts scheduled

Tryouts for the String of Pearls, the precision dance and kick group at Pearl River College will be Saturday, April 14, beginning with registration at 9 a.m. in the PRC Coliseum.

All high school seniors and freshman college students are eligible to try out.

At least three experienced judges will head the selection committee. All contestants are required to learn a short routine and then will be judged on comprehension and execution of the routine. Rhythm and marching ability will also be considered by the judges. The tryouts are not open to the public.

For more information contact the PRC Student Affairs Office at (601) 795-4558.

Registration is from 9 to 10 a.m. with rehearsal from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Lunch will be served from 11:30 to 12:30 with more rehearsals until 1 p.m. The tryouts are scheduled from 1 to 4 p.m.

Rocks blast OLV

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws visited Our Lady of Victories Saturday and came away with a 13-4 decision in varsity baseball action.

Winning pitcher Casey Wittmann (1-1) relieved Mark Logan in the third inning and pitched the remaining four two-thirds innings of the game.

Leading hitters for the Rocks were David Pitalo, Casey Wittmann, and Mark Logan with a single and double each. Ron Artigues, Chris Darling, and Matt Rosetti each singled.

After trailing OLV 3-0 in the third inning, the Rocks exploded for 13 runs in the final four innings.

In the fourth inning, David Pitalo led off with a double, followed by Mark Logan who singled. Casey Wittmann doubled scoring Pitalo and Logan. Chris Darling walked, setting up Mike Weems sacrifice bunt, advancing Wittmann. Donald Pitalo sacrificed, scoring Darling, giving the Rocks a 4-3 advantage after four innings.

Ron Artigues led off the fifth with a single, stole second, advanced on Logan's infield grounder, and scored on Wittmann's single up the middle. Pinch runner Clinton Edwards then stole second, and scored on Darling's single to left.

Mike Weems led off the sixth with an infield hit bobbled by the first baseman. Pinch runner Jay Artigues then stole second. Matt Rosetti singled, and catcher John Henry was safe on a hit off the pitcher. When Ron Artigues walked and David Pitalo was safe on a fielder's choice, Mark Logan came to the plate and scored two runners on a double to right center field.

The Rocks closed out the scoring in the seventh inning with Jay Artigues and Robert Peranich drawing walks. Pat Cilurso flied to right. Matt Rosetti hit a shot off the third baseman, scoring Artigues. John Henry and Jake Welsh scored Peranich and Rosetti to close out the 13 run attack for SSC.

St. Stanislaus (1-3) meets St. John in the Hancock tournament tonight at 6 p.m. at HNC, following the Pass High-Bay High game at 3:30 p.m.

Wildlife Week observance scheduled

It's hard to think of something that doesn't contain—or wasn't produced with—water.

"Water: We Can't Live Without It."

That theme is the conservation message of this year's National Wildlife Week, to be observed March 18 to 24, and sponsored by the national Wildlife Federation. The theme will be promoted throughout the year to make Americans more aware of the critical significance of life-sustaining water.

Honorary Chairman of the 47th annual Wildlife Week is popular Muppet, Kermit the Frog, the host of the television's award-winning "The Muppet Show."

One of Jim Henson's internationally acclaimed Muppet troupe, Kermit will speak on behalf of the National Wildlife Federation in its 1984 broadcast public service announcements that promote the conservation of the nation's dwindling supplies of fresh water.

More than 20 million students, teachers and conservationists are expected to participate in the Wildlife Week observance helping promote the importance of clean, life-giving water and the necessity of conserving critical water resources.

Each year, school children learn about Wildlife Week with information provided by the National Wildlife Federation in specially prepared education kits.

"More than any other resource, water is basic to survival," said Jay D. Hair, NWF executive vice president.

"Water is part of every living thing, and is just as vital to our industrial processes."

Unfortunately, our useable freshwater supplies are threatened by contamination, mismanagement, and wastes. We hope to impress upon Americans this year the need to protect and conserve our precious water supplies."

The Earth is covered with 326 million cubic miles of water—which only 3 percent is freshwater.

Varieties of fish and wildlife depend on that fresh water for life: Freshwater wetlands support species from the bullfrog to the banded water snake, while rivers, streams, and lakes are precious habitat for moose, trout, turtles, raccoons, and salamanders, among others.

Just as dependent on fresh water are humans, whose bodies are 65 percent water. It has been estimated that as a nation we use as much as 700 billion gallons of water a day.

The scarce supply of fresh water isn't the only problem facing this resource. Each year, several billion tons of soil are washed into our waterways, making them unfit for use. Fresh water is also polluted by untreated sewage, industrial wastes, pesticides, fertilizers, and toxic chemicals.

While controlling water contamination is crucial, conservation is the key to solving our nation's freshwater demands, says the National Wildlife Federation. For instance, the country can save millions of gallons a day by using more efficient irrigation systems and water-saving plumbing fixtures, and by repairing leaking water systems.

Turkey season opens Saturday

Mississippi's first wild turkey hunting season of this year gets underway Saturday, Mar. 17 and extends through Apr. 9. The second season opens Apr. 11 and closes May 1.

This year gobbler hunting will be permitted in all or parts of 77 counties. Five counties will have no turkey hunting.

The bag limit during the spring season is one gobbler per day, two per season, but no more than three during the license year. Hunting hours are from one-half hour before sunrise until one-half hour after sunset.

According to Department of Wildlife Conservation enforcement authorities in Jackson, hunters must have a valid hunting license signed and on their person before going hunting.

Enforcement officers are reminding hunters that hunting turkeys over bait and/or with dogs, live decoys, or electrically operated calling or sound reproducing devices is prohibited.

Game biologists within the Department of Wildlife Conservation say that Mississippi boasts of one of the most viable populations of wild turkeys in the South. Although population figures are difficult to come by with exactness, they say there are probably well in excess of 200,000 birds in the Magnolia State.

"Mississippi's turkey population has grown to the point to where each spring season holds the possibility that hunters will harvest a record number of birds," bureau of fisheries and wildlife director Lewis Bays said.

"In some sections of the state, it is not so much a decision of where to go kill a gobbler, but selecting the best place to hunt. It is just that good in some spots."

This spring turkey hunting will be permitted on 25 state wildlife management areas, five more than in 1981. In addition hunting will be legal on some National Forest Service lands, and on Yazoo, Panther Swamp, and Nokubee National Wildlife Refuge.

Mississippi residents wanting to turkey hunt may purchase an all game hunting and fishing license for $13 or a sportsman's license for $25.

CRAPPIE FISHING
If excellent crappie fishing is any indication that spring is around the corner, then get your fishing poles and head for the lake.

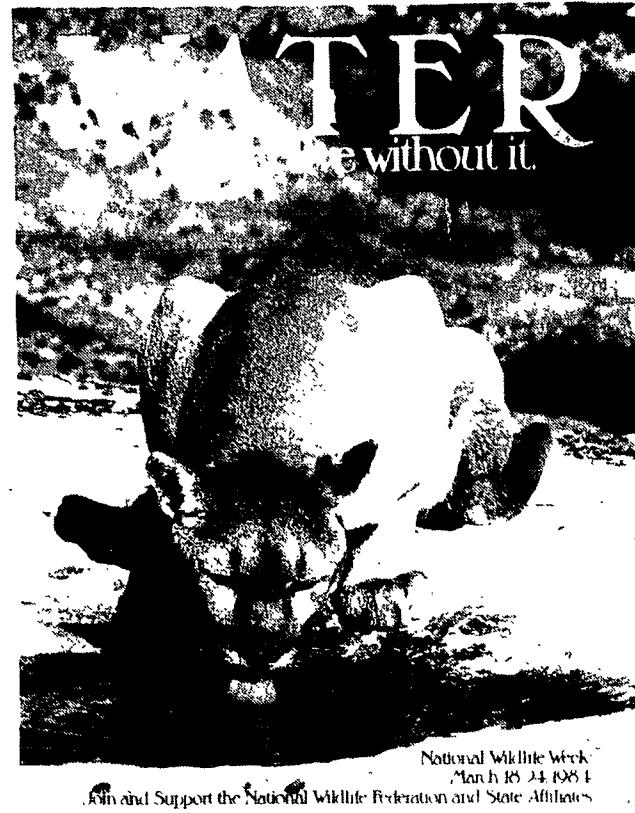

Fisheries biologists with the Department of Wildlife Conservation in Jackson say that crappie fishing has been excellent on some large reservoirs like Ross Barnett just north of Jackson.

"Crappie fishing has been very good on Barnett for the last several weeks," fisheries chief Jack Herring said.

"So far this year fishermen have been having above average success on those portions of Barnett Reservoir above Highway 43, down in the big lake, and in sections below the reservoir spillway."

Herring said that rain received in the Pearl River Watershed will cause water levels to remain high in the Ross Barnett spillway for another week to 10 days. This should result in excellent spillway crappie fishing.

Crappie originally a stream fish, concentrate around flowing water to force themselves on food fish before moving to spawn.

National Wildlife Week

Fairhope 10K event scheduled

The Spring Fever Chase will be held in Fairhope, Ala. on Saturday, March 17.

This year's sixth annual event, sponsored by Central Bank of the South, will feature races of 10,000 meters (6.2 miles) and 2 miles and will wind along the beautiful Eastern Shore of Mobile Bay.

An added attraction of the 1984 race is that it will be held in conjunction with the Eastern Shore Arts and Crafts Festival and it will be run on St. Patrick's Day.

Race committee member Tim Simmonds comments, "We are excited about our event being on the same weekend as the Arts and Crafts Festival. We expect a large turnout and this will be a real family festival, with something for everyone."

Awards will be given to the top three male and female runners overall as well as the top three male and female runners in the usual age groups. Prizes will also be given to the top Masters (over 40) man and woman.

The Spring Fever Chase is considered one of the premier races along the Gulf Coast and annually draws fields of over 1,000 runners. This year's event is part of the Hibbets Sporting Goods Gran Prix Series.

Both the longer race and the fun run will begin and end at the city park overlooking the Fairhope Municipal Pier.

The entry fee is $7 and the first 2,000 runners registered will receive tee shirts on or before race day.

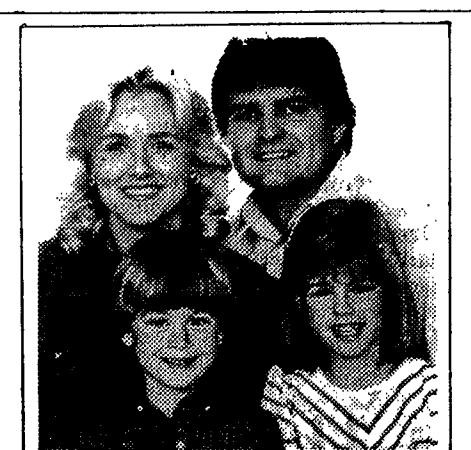

Entry forms are available by writing: Marketing Department Central Bank of the South, P.O. Drawer 1288, Mobile, Ala. 36601.

Pre-registered runners will be able to pick up their race numbers and tee shirts at a special Spring Fever Chase booth at the Azalea Trail Run exhibition at the Mobile Municipal Auditorium on March 3 and 4.

Packets will also be available at the Spanish Fort Branch of Central Bank of the South as well as on race day.

While controlling water contamination is crucial, conservation is the key to solving our nation's freshwater demands, says the National Wildlife Federation. For instance, the country can save millions of gallons a day by using more efficient irrigation systems and water-saving plumbing fixtures, and by repairing leaking water systems.

Facts about Fresh Water

The Great Lakes contain 20 percent of the world's fresh water.

Half the domestic water used is to water gardens and lawns.

A person can live only two or three days without water.

Seventy percent of the fresh water on earth is frozen.

A slow faucet drip can waste 10 to 20 gallons of water a day.

USM's Poole publishes pitching skills article

Harvey Poole, with the School of Health and Physical Education and Recreation at the University of Southern Mississippi, recently published in the February issue of 'Athletic Journal' an article entitled 'The Biomechanics of Pitching.'

Poole's article stressed that although fielding and hitting practice is obviously important, pitching is a skill that also requires practice development just like other skills.

He said it is necessary to understand the relationships of the biomechanical principles which are essential in generating forces through body motion.

"The ability of the coach to use that knowledge and teach his pitchers how to obtain the maximum benefit of the body forces and motions will directly result in more effective performances," Poole said.

By understanding, recognizing and taking the time to teach the basic biomechanical principles involved in throwing, Poole said that it can only enhance the effectiveness of pitchers.

"When adequate emphasis is placed on the pitcher as well as the other players, the end result will probably be an increase in the number of games won," he added.

In the Under 14/16 Division there were a couple of exciting games. Knights of Columbus scored first against Bay-Waveland Tire in the second quarter and held a 1-0 halftime lead. That lead was extended to 3-0 in the third quarter before Bay-Waveland Tire got on the scoreboard.

In a last flurry Bay-Waveland Tire could not quite get the equalized and Knights of Columbus held on to a 3-2 win.

In Picayune Gulf Coast Waste had little trouble disposing of the home team by a 7-1 score.

In Mandeville Aican Cable, playing shorthanded, jumped off to a 3-0 lead, only to see the home team come back to wear down Aican Cable and earn a 3-3 tie.

Redfish study underway

Work was already well under way on the first year of a planned three-year investigation focusing on red drum larvae in Mississippi Coastal waters, when the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory recently received approval of funding for calendar year 1984.

By making three sample collecting cruises in the study area last September and October, principal investigator Dr. Joanne Laroche, and associate investigator Dr. John Steen were able to take advantage of the 1983 spawning season.

"There have been no comprehensive studies of diet and trophic (nutritional) relations of young red drum," explains Laroche.

She and Steen are using preliminary diet analyses of over 200 small red drum from plankton samples taken during 1979-80.

Data from this analysis are presented in a manuscript they have in preparation.

"The results of this overall study will provide the first precise data on the reliance of red drum on specific sizes and kinds of prey," Laroche adds.

"There is an urgent need for information on early feeding ecology of red drum, such as the course of their nutritional development, food selectivity, incidence of cannibalism, and especially the relationship between red drum feeding and distribution in time and space of their prey," Steen points out.

This investigation into the growth of young red drum will be based on the daily otolith growth increment technique.

Since the discovery of daily growth rings or increments on otoliths (calcareous concretions in the internal ear of fishes) it is possible to determine Pearl River College will hold football cheerleader tryouts Thursday, April 13 at 3:15 p.m. in the PRC Coliseum.

Participants must have a cheer ready to perform, however, a cheer and dance routine will be taught at the tryouts.

Contestants must dress appropriately in comfortable shorts, shirt and tennis shoes. No previous cheerleading experience is required.

The importance of this research and the need for these data has already been recognized by fishery resource managers at the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission, and the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS).

From the Coast Guard for anything, from ships lost, man overboard, boats grounded or out of fuel, to simple safety patrols.

Total cost of the investigation this year is estimated to be $97,300 with the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory providing support in the amount of $35,300 and the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium providing $43,300 in federal funds and $18,700 in State funds.

It is one of the largest public service oriented organizations in America.

Each member undergoes intensive training supervised by the U.S. Coast Guard. Only after they are basically qualified can they wear the uniform and go to sea.

The auxiliary sometimes is already at sea on safety patrol. They are also on 24-hour call.

Coast Episcopal Elementary conducts Science Fair

JARROD WHITE of Diamondhead stands beside his project, 'Computer System,' which won the fifth grade first place award at the recent Coast Episcopal Elementary School Science Fair.

Coast Episcopal Elementary School of Bay St. Louis recently held its annual Science Fair.

During the day entries were set up and exhibited with all grades, one through six, participating.

Students in grades one, two and three were awarded certificates of participation.

After 3 p.m. exhibits for grades four, five and six were judged by a faculty member from a local public school.

That evening the fair was opened for viewing by parents, friends and other interested persons.

FOURTH GRADE WINNERS

Fourth grade winners included Amanda Berry of Gulfport, first place, 'The Growth and Development of a Gray Squirrel'; Travis Flower of Pass Christian, second place, 'Can Plants Live without Light?'; and Blair Shellnut of Pass Christian, third place, 'The Effects of Acid on Animal Tissue'.

Fourth graders Brandon Smith of Bay St. Louis and John Onate of Gulfport received honorable mention awards for their projects 'What Can You See Under a Microscope?' and 'Moisture in Popcorn.'

FIFTH GRADE WINNERS

Fifth grade winners were Jarrod White of Diamondhead, first place, 'Computer System'; Betsy Boyce of Diamondhead, second place, 'How to Grow Avocado'; and David Williams of Ocean Springs, 'Rust'.

Honorable mention awards were given to Breck Bridges of Pass Christian, 'Biofeedback'; Travis Todd of Pass Christian, 'Foult Pendulum'; and Melissa Cornelius of Biloxi, 'Why Plants Live'.

SIXTH GRADE WINNERS

Sixth grade winners were Scott Covode of Pass Christian, first place for 'Staphylococcus Epidermidis vs. Antibiotics'; Margaret Clarkson of Ocean Springs, second place, 'How Do You Interrupt the Life Cycle of Intestinal Parasites in Dogs and Cats?'; and Chris Bradley of Slidell, La., third place, 'Dams'.

Jeffrey Gomez of Slidell, La., received honorable mention for 'How Is Water Purified?'

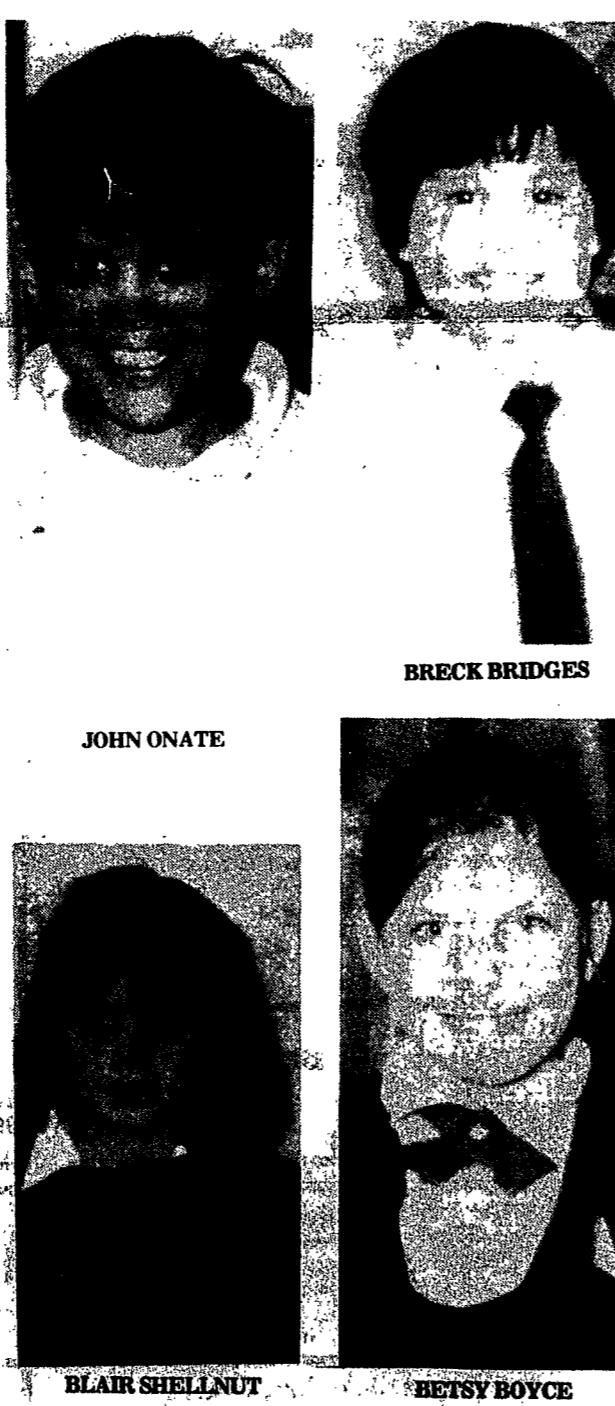

AMANDA BERRY of Gulfport garnered the fourth grade first place slot at Coast Episcopal Elementary School's Science Fair for her project, 'The Growth and Development of a Gray Squirrel.'

SCOTT COVODE of Pass Christian, sixth grader, won a first place award for his exhibit on 'Staphylococcus Epidermidis vs. Antibiotics' at the recent Coast Episcopal Elementary School Science Fair.

ARIES (3-21/4-19) An assertive nature can lead you to great success—or great disappointment. Balance your confidence with caution for best results this week. Guard against blowing your own horn too loudly.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20) Now is the time to fight the "green-eyed monster," or risk losing a valuable friendship. Give the other party room to breathe and abandon your "all or nothing" stance.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20) Your versatility is often mistaken for fickleness; your eloquence for glibness, which may annoy others. Use the powers of your mind wisely and all will be well.

CANCER (6-21/7-22) You build an elaborate defense system to hide deep feelings. Be careful not to reject love for fear of being hurt. This is the time to make a sign of trust to someone who cares.

LEO (7-23/8-22) You like attention and usually get it, but now is the time to move over and let someone else share the limelight. You are generous enough not to hog the stage all the time.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22) Some well-meant criticism is coming your way. Don't over-react. Show that you can take what you are prone to give. You may be pleasantly surprised at the reaction to such an attitude.

GCRL announces summer classes

The 1984 summer class schedule at the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory broadens the range of marine science for students to pick from with the addition of a new course and the re-offering of another.

"We have courses to challenge students interested in many different areas of marine science. The courses are not restricted to marine science majors but are open to all students who meet the prerequisites," said Registrar David Cook.

The new course is Early Life History of Marine Fishes. According to Dr. Cook very few institutions in America offer this kind of course. It is scheduled for the first term and involves the study of reproduction and early developmental processes of marine fishes.

The course also includes a discussion of distribution patterns, population dynamics and ecological interactions of fish eggs and larvae. The student will learn sampling methods, identification of fish eggs and larvae, data quantification and a few experiments in rearing larvae.

This course, which carries four semester hours of upper level undergraduate and graduate credit, will be taught by Dr. Sally Richardson from June 18 to July 13.

Coastal Vegetation may be taught for the first time this summer but was actually introduced two years ago. The course explores almost all aspects of coastal vegetation with emphasis on the local region.

Students earn three semester hours of upper level undergraduate and graduate credit. The course will be taught by Dr. Lionel Eleuterius from June 25 through July 13.

Other courses and their instructors for the first term are: Marine Invertebrate Zoology (June 4-July 13), Dr. Edwin Cake and Dr. Richard Heard; Oceanography I (June 11-July 13), Dr. Tom Lytle, Dr. Ervin Otros, and Charles Eleuterius; Marine Microbiology (June 11-July 13), Dr. David Cook; and Marine Ecology (June 11-July 13), Dr. Terry McBee and Dr. Robert Woodmansee.

Second term courses and instructors are: Marine Vertebrate Zoology and Ichthyology (July 16-Aug. 24), Dr. John Sharp; Aquaculture (July 16-Aug. 24), Dr. Edwin Cake and John Ogle; Oceanography II (July 16-Aug. 24), Dr. Tom McIlwain and Walter Brehm; Fauna and Faunistic Ecology of Tidal Marshes (July 16-Aug. 10), Dr. Richard Heard; Marine Botany (July 16-Aug. 10), Dr. R. B. Chinnell; and Coastal Marine Geology (July 16-Aug. 3), Dr. Ervin Otros.

Courses offering individualized study by arrangement are Special Topics in Marine Science, Special Problems in Marine Science, Carcinology, and Comparative Histology of Marine Organisms.

These courses carry both upper level undergraduate and graduate credit.

Nearly all the classes make frequent trips into the bayous and salt marshes surrounding the lab as well as to the barrier islands and into the open Gulf of Mexico. This gives students an opportunity to see marine organisms in their natural habitat.

It also gives the students a chance to use various methods to collect specimens for observation in the laboratory.

Classes are open to college graduates and undergraduates.

Junior standing or above is required for all courses except Oceanography I and II. Some prerequisites are required for each course.

Credit earned (3-6 semester hours) depends upon the length of the course.

For more information on courses, living arrangements and tuition write to The Registrar, GCRL, Ocean Springs 39564.

CAMPUS BUILDING

Four buildings on The University of Mississippi campus have been renamed in honor of distinguished Mississippians who have made major contributions to Ole Miss.

Chancellor Porter L. Fortune Jr. made recommendations for the changes to the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning, which approved the new names.

The Physics Building is now named Arthur B. Lewis Hall in honor of the dean emeritus of the College of Liberal Arts. Lewis is a native of Jackson with a long career of teaching and administrative service at the university.

The Fine Arts Center is named W. Alton Bryant Hall in honor of Vice Chancellor Emeritus Bryant, another Ole Miss alumnus with a long career of service.

now be William M. Shoemaker Hall, honoring a distinguished alumnus with long service on the state board of trustees. The Meridian civic leader served as executive vice president and general manager of the Meridian and Bigbee Railroad Company until his retirement.

We Sell The Nation's Most Efficient Fuel — Natural Gas.

We know natural gas.

It's our business.

We know that great changes are coming to this vital energy source. We know about the new end-use technology that is increasing energy recovery from the same old BTU content.

We know about it because we're part of it.

Time doesn't stand still. Neither does United Gas.

We manage the most strategic delivery system in the Gulf South. This company has crossed rivers and swamps and met the challenge of the Gulf of Mexico. We've laid more than 9000 miles of pipeline underground and undersea.

Our personnel comprise one of the most experienced organizations in the natural gas business. More than 50 years ago this company first brought natural gas to the Gulf South. In the process it has met and solved one problem after another. Now, with the same spirit and determination, we're working to lower costs and increase energy efficiencies.

Times are changing, but no matter how they change, some things remain unchanged: natural gas remains the nation's premium fuel, clean, efficient, non-polluting, the best energy you can buy. And United Gas remains the Gulf South's prime energy supplier.

USM student studies fire ant behavior

The cargo of a Brazilian freighter, unloaded at the Port of Mobile over 40 years ago, included an unwelcome guest which has spread throughout the Southern United States—the fire ant.

Not much is known about the behavior of the fire ant but Susan Conley, a student working on her masters in biology at the University of Southern Mississippi, is researching the ant's reactions to its natural environment.

Although Susan said she currently is interested in studying the developmental process of the fire ant, she hopes one day to study its mating behavior, which would involve timing the leaving of the nest, sex ratios and how an ant avoids mating with other ants from its own colony.

"The process starts with the hatching of the young ants. Afterwards they stay inside the nest to take care of the other eggs and brood," Susan explained.

"As they get older, they start to take on other functions and eventually leave the nest to find food for the colony."

She said she is curious to know what causes this developmental change.

Other types of ants have a caste division of labor and are actually born to perform a certain job in or outside the mound, but Susan said fire ants do not have this particular division.

"They develop from one task to the next," she said.

"There may be learning involved and probably some changes going on inside them, but it seems to be an indefinite type of programming."

From the moment an ant hatches from the egg and even before, Susan said its survival depends on its co-workers and luck.

"Actually, queen ants can live up to 20 years but the workers, being under a lot of stress and having to leave the nest in search of food, may live only three or four months," she said.

It is difficult to trace the different stages of an ant because they are usually too small to mark, she added.

FIRE ANT HEAD—The male fire ant has three eyes located on top of his head as well as the larger compound on the side. The antennae are connected by movable joints which enable the ant to detect how strong the wind is blowing and give the ant a direction of flight. (Photo by Susan Conley)

WOKER'S STINGER—The stinger of the fire ant is only 1/100 of an inch long. The worker is the only member of a colony to have a stinger.

PAINFUL STIFF NECKS

The muscles of the neck become spastic, stiff and painful in movement. These attacks are often sudden and occur when the person is in a sudden twist or turn or fall or even during exercise and strenuous work may bring on such a condition. Research in our field shows that people are susceptible to these conditions because of a basic underlying spinal problem. One may have a weak or weakly developed spinal column, or the spinal column does not fit right moment to moment with a letter. These conditions are not caused for the most part by a spinal problem, but by a muscle problem. The muscles of the neck are not strong enough to support the head and neck in a normal position.

country besides her own that focuses on the behavioral aspects of the ant.

"I don't think there is really anything good about the fire ant, but they are interesting to study," Susan said.

"They do fascinating things and almost seem to be intelligent," she said.

The workers inside the mound are all female and come in various sizes. The job of the worker is to tend the eggs, carry the debris out of the mound and protect both the queen and the eggs. During the months of May to September, Susan said most of the eggs are hatched and new colonies are established.

These colonies can totally destroy a vegetable garden.

Susan said the best solution to kill a mound without the use of chemicals is to wait until after a rain and pour hot water onto the pile. If done at the correct time, she said, this could completely eliminate the mound without using harmful insecticides or chemicals.

"I think a behavioral solution will have to be reached eventually to destroy the fire ant without the use of organic poisonings," she said.

"They do fascinating things and almost seem to be intelligent," she said.

Corned Beef and Cabbage

- 1 small white or green cabbage, quartered, cored and diced
- Salt
- 2 cups diced cooked corned beef
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 1/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 cups milk
- 1 cup light cream
- 1 1/2 teaspoons prepared mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire
- Pepper
- 2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Cook cabbage in small amount of boiling salted water 10 minutes or until almost tender. Drain cabbage and put half in greased 3-quart casserole. Add beef and cover with remaining cabbage. Melt butter and blend in flour. Gradually add milk and cream and cook, stirring, until thickened. Add mustard, Worcestershire, and salt and pepper to taste. Pour over ingredients in casserole. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in preheated moderate oven (350°F.) about 1 hour. Makes 6 servings.
